Augmentix® adds Dell Veteran to Board of Directors

Joe Marengi brings extensive experience in corporate and public institution sales

AUSTIN, TX –October 1, 2007 Augmentix Corporation, a leader in reliable, rugged computing solutions for demanding environments, today announced that Joe Marengi will join the company as an independent board member. Mr. Marengi is a venture partner at Austin Ventures and a former executive at Dell and Novell.

“We are very excited to have Joe Marengi join the Augmentix team”, said Stephan Godevais, President and Chief Executive Officer of Augmentix. “His extensive experience in developing highly successful enterprise and large institution business models coupled with his expertise in building multi-faceted delivery channels will be of great value to our company.”

“I welcome the opportunity to help Augmentix grow into an innovative leader in the rugged, mission-critical computing market,” said Mr. Marengi. “Augmentix is redefining rugged for customers who need high performance, MIL-SPEC computing solutions that deliver measurable benefits to a growing spectrum of military, homeland security and enterprise customers on a global basis. My role will be to help them understand the changing needs of large enterprises and to help them scale up to the next level.”

Mr. Marengi’s industry experience includes 10 years with Dell, Inc. (NASDAQ: DELL), where he was SVP and co-general manager of Dell Americas, responsible for all Dell operations in the Americas region, including sales, marketing, manufacturing, and service. His focus was on the corporate and public institution customer base.

Prior to Dell, he was president and COO of Novell, Inc. (NASDAQ: NOVL). As president, he was responsible for strategy and day-to-day operations of the company. He joined Novell in 1989 moving through several successive promotions to become the Executive VP of Sales and Worldwide Field Operations for the five years preceding his appointment to the president’s role. As EVP, he was responsible for setting up the major account licensing, channel and consulting programs, and overseeing the company’s International expansion.
